When we talk about autism care, we often focus on access to services.

But for many families, the biggest challenge isn't finding care — it's navigating everything around it.

Appointments. Insurance. School meetings. Therapy schedules. Work. Life.

The mental load is real. And it impacts everything.

At Catalight, we believe the future of care means building systems that are not only clinically excellent, but also easier for families to navigate.

Because better systems create better outcomes—for kids and for families.

Care is more than treatment.

It's the entire experience families navigate.
